

Customer Support Channels and Response Times

Document ID	GEN-001	Category	General
Document Type	Customer Support Knowledge Base	Status	Example / Synthetic

Summary: General information about contacting support, expected response times, and what details to include in a request.

Support channels

Customers can contact support through the in-app Help Center contact form or by replying to an existing support email thread.

For account-specific issues, contact support while signed in whenever possible so the request can be linked to the correct account.

Support hours

Standard support coverage is Monday through Friday, 09:00 to 18:00 UTC, excluding company holidays.

Requests can be submitted at any time. Messages received outside support hours are queued for the next coverage period.

Typical response targets

General questions: within 2 business days.

Billing questions: within 1 business day.

Account access or widespread technical incidents: prioritized based on severity and customer impact.

What to include

Include a short description, steps already attempted, relevant invoice or error numbers, and screenshots when useful.

Do not send passwords, full payment card numbers, recovery codes, or other secret credentials.

Frequently Asked Questions

Q: Can I open multiple tickets for the same problem?

A: It is better to reply to the existing ticket. Duplicate tickets can slow investigation and split the conversation history.

Q: How do I report an urgent outage?

A: Use the Help Center and select the technical incident option with a description of the impact and affected users.
